

Optimi Personal Insurance

Product description

Valid from 1 January 2013

Optimi is a flexible and individual personal insurance policy. You will receive comprehensive coverage against illness, accidents, disability and death for yourself and your family.

Life insurance cover

In the case of Optimi, you can yourself determine the amount of the sum payable at death. The sum payable at death does not decrease any statutory compensation potentially received by the next of kin. You can select either a fixed amount or a decreasing amount for the sum payable at death.

In the fixed-sum option, the sum payable at death remains the same throughout the insurance period. The sum payable at death is adjusted by index adjustments, unless otherwise agreed upon. The premium depends on the amount of the sum payable at death, and the age of the insured. The insurance premiums increase with age.

The alternative is life insurance for a decreasing amount, where the insurance amount decreases annually so that the insurance premium remains the same except for any index adjustments.

Insurance for two people, Couple Insurance, is more economical than taking out life insurance individually. The sum payable at death will be paid in case either one of the insured dies. If the insured die simultaneously, the insurance benefit is paid in half to the beneficiaries or both.

Life insurance cover may be granted to persons between 0 and 89 years of age. The policy expires at the latest when the insured turns 90. Insurance that only covers accidental death can be granted to persons between 0 and 69 years of age. The policy expires at the latest when the insured turns 70.

Cover for illness and accidents

Medical expense insurance

Medical expense insurance covers doctors' fees, examinations, treatment and drugs prescribed by a doctor, to the extent that these are not compensated for on the basis of legislation. The policy does not cover normal health examinations, travel costs or physical therapy, for example, or the costs of occupational health care. Additional information is available in the insurance terms and conditions.

The deductible for medical expense insurance is EUR 156 (in 2013). A deductible is insurance period-specific and deducted once every insurance period. Whether or not expenses arise from one or more illnesses or accidents is not significant considering the deduction of the deductible.

The maximum amount of medical costs covered by insurance is EUR 60,200 (in 2013), regardless of the number of incidents. The maximum daily compensation for daily hospital fees is EUR 31.40 in 2013. When paid to the insured, the expense compensation is exempt from tax.

Medical expense insurance can be extended to cover illness and accidents from the age of two months until the age of 59. The policy expires at the latest when the insured turns 60. However, the Optimini medical expense insurance will terminate at the latest when the insured reaches 20 years of age.

You can also select medical expense insurance which only covers accidents between 0 and 69 years of age. The policy expires at the latest when the insured turns 70.

Hospitalisation insurance

Hospitalisation insurance allows for high-quality inpatient care. Hospitalisation insurance will pay a daily allowance starting from the first day of inpatient treatment if the patient is in hospital for five days or more.

The benefit will be paid regardless of whether benefits are received from other insurance policies, such as medical expense insurance. Compensation will be paid according to the contract for a maximum of 365 or 730 days. You can freely select the amount of the daily compensation. Benefits are taxable income for the share that exceeds the daily hospital fees.

Hospitalisation insurance can be taken between the ages of 2 and 64. The policy expires when the insured turns 65. You can also select hospitalisation insurance only to cover accidents between 0 and 69 years of age. The policy expires at the latest when the insured turns 70.

Cover for critical illnesses

In case of a critical illness, it is important to quickly receive the best possible treatment. When a cover for critical illnesses is attached to the insurance, it is also financially possible to arrange things and be treated. The most critical illnesses and procedures entitle to compensation: cancer, coronary artery bypass surgery, myocardial infarction, renal failure, multiple sclerosis and cerebral palsy as well as organ or bone marrow transplant. The illnesses entitled to compensation are described in more detail in the insurance policy terms and conditions.

It is possible to freely choose the sum insured to a maximum of 100,000 euro. The sum insured is fixed, and an annual index adjustment will be made to it. The insurance will pay tax-exempt lump-sum compensation to the insured when the illness specified in the insurance policy terms and conditions is discovered or the procedure has been performed. The compensation will not decrease the reimbursement from KEELA. The payment of compensation requires that the insured has applied for compensation during his or her lifetime within 30 days of the diagnosis or procedure at the earliest.

The use of tobacco products by the insured also influences the cover for critical illnesses premium. The insurance premium is cheaper for non-smokers. The insurance policy terms and conditions define in more detail what is meant by the use of tobacco products.

The cover can be granted to persons of 20–64 years of age. The cover for critical illnesses enters into force in accordance with the agreement 90 days after the signing of the application, provided that the insurance company accepts the application made and grants the cover.

Unless otherwise stated by the insurance company, the cover will always be extended for the next 10 years after its 10-year validity, provided that the cover for critical illnesses is offered by the company at the time of extension. The cover will continue without providing a health report on the terms and conditions of the cover at the moment of continuation. However, the cover will terminate at the latest on the insured's 65th birthday or when full compensation for the cover has been paid.

Cover for disability

Daily allowance cover for disability periods

A daily allowance is paid from the disability insurance for the days of disability exceeding the waiting period. It is most appropriate to select the period during which the employer pays full salary as the waiting period. After the waiting period, Mandatum Life will pay a daily allowance in accordance with the contract for a maximum period of 365 or 730 days, seven days a week.

The daily allowance is taxable earned income. Benefits received from other insurance policies do not affect the daily allowance.

The policy is granted to persons between 15 and 59 years of age. The policy expires at the latest when the insured turns 60. Insurance that only covers accidents is granted to persons between 15 and 69 years of age. The policy expires at the latest when the insured turns 70.

Cover for permanent disability

The insurance policy for permanent disability entitles to a non-recurring benefit if the insured becomes permanently disabled due to an illness or accident during the validity of the insurance.

A disability can be regarded as permanent once it has continued for at least one (1) year. In addition, the payment of compensation requires that the insured has applied for compensation during his or her lifetime. A permanently disabled person is one who cannot manage his or her normal work or any other work that can be regarded as being suitable and providing for a reasonable living, taking into account his or her age and professional competence.

The policy is granted to persons between 15 and 64 years of age. Compensation is exempt from tax when paid to the insured. Permanent disability cover for illness and accidents ends, at the latest, when the insured turns 65.

Insurance against accident only

You can also take out life insurance, medical expense insurance, hospitalisation insurance and disability insurance as a cheaper alternative that only covers accidents. However, when considering the scope of cover, it is worth remembering that more than 70% of short-term disabilities and more than 90% of permanent disabilities and deaths are due to illnesses.

An accident is a sudden and unexpected event that causes bodily injury and happens without the intent of the insured due to an external factor. This could include, for example, a strain, sprain or fracture caused by tripping or slipping. Medical expense insurance in the case of an accident, as well as hospitalisation insurance and disability insurance that only cover accidents, do not cover accidents that occur during dangerous sports activities. Accidents caused in strength training or motor sports, for example, are also not covered. Additional information is available in the insurance terms and conditions.

Cover for accidental permanent injury

Permanent injury caused by an accident is defined as a permanent medical handicap as a result of an accidental injury. "Permanent injury" refers to the fact that the handicap will not be removed in the future even though the injury would otherwise be cured.

Insurance for accidental permanent injury entitles the policyholder to a non-recurring benefit. The benefit is paid in full or in part in accordance with the medical degree of handicap. Compensation will be paid if the disability class of the permanent injury caused by an accident is at least 2 (10%).

A requirement is that the injury is observed within three years from the accident. Insurance can be taken out between the ages of 0 and 69. Compensation can be selected up to EUR 200,000. The compensation amount is exempt from tax. Cover for accidents ends, at the latest, when the insured reaches 70 years of age.

Optimini – insurance for children

Optimini is life and medical expense insurance for children. You can select life insurance, insurance that covers accidental permanent injury and medical expense insurance. Optimini life insurance and insurance for accidental permanent injury can be taken for a child immediately after birth. Life insurance cover can be EUR 170–5,000. The cover for accidental permanent injury can be selected up to EUR 200,000.

Optimini medical expense insurance can be taken for a child that is aged two months or older. In addition to the medical expense insurance, the insurance policy must always include life insurance against illness and accidents. Medical expense insurance covers doctors' fees, examinations, treatment and drugs prescribed by a doctor, to the extent that these are not compensated for on the basis of legislation. It does not cover normal health examinations, travel costs or physical therapy.

The insurance period-specific deductible for medical expense insurance is EUR 156 (in 2013). The amount of the deductible is deducted once every insurance period. The maximum amount of medical costs covered by insurance is EUR 60,200 (in 2013), regardless of the number of incidents. The maximum compensation for daily hospital fees is EUR 31.40 in 2013. The Optimini policy expires when the child turns 20.

The beneficiary

You determine who will receive compensation (the beneficiaries) in the insurance application. Benefits are usually paid to the insured and, in the case of death, to the next of kin or another designated beneficiary. If the beneficiaries for the sum payable upon death are next of kin, the spouse will receive one half of the benefit, and the children, the other half. If there is no spouse, the children will receive the entire benefit.

A partner must be separately designated as the beneficiary. You can change the beneficiary specified in the insurance policy by notifying Mandatum Life thereof in writing.

Entry into force of the insurance

The insurance policy will take effect as agreed or, at the latest, when Mandatum Life announces that it has granted the policy. When the policy is granted, Mandatum Life will also cover any loss events that might have occurred during the processing time. Your policy, the insurance policy terms and conditions and the Optimi statement sent annually show the content of your valid insurance policy. The policyholder may terminate the insurance at any time.

Insurance premiums

The premiums required to keep the insurance cover valid must be paid by the due date. Cover premiums will be determined according to the gender and age of the insured and the selected cover amount. The insurance premiums usually increase with age. An annual index adjustment is made to premiums and the cover, unless you have otherwise agreed when signing the contract. Additional information is available in the price list.

Taxation of personal insurance policies

The information regarding taxation corresponds to the situation on 1 January 2013. Tax provisions may change later. Mandatum Life is not responsible for any changes in taxation.

Compensation

Death

Benefits payable upon death to the next of kin are exempt from tax up to EUR 35,000 per beneficiary. Next of kin include, for example, children, grandchildren and parents. In the case of a spouse, half of the benefits, or no less than EUR 35,000, is exempt from tax. For any share exceeding the above, the spouse and other next of kin will pay inheritance tax up to a rate of 16%.

Benefits payable upon death to a partner are exempt from tax up to EUR 35,000 (for any share exceeding this, the maximum inheritance tax rate is 16%) if the unmarried couple lives together and has or has had a child together or if they have been married. Other beneficiaries pay in capital income tax on the entire sum payable at death. The capital income tax is 30%. The tax rate rises to 32% for the share of capital income that exceeds EUR 50,000.

Daily allowances

Daily allowances paid to the insured are treated as taxable earned income.

Permanent disability, accidental permanent injury, critical illness

The non-recurring benefit paid to the insured is completely exempt from tax.

Medical expenses

The expense allowance paid to the insured is exempt from tax.

Hospitalisation insurance

The compensation is taxable earned income for the insured for the share that exceeds the daily hospital fees.

Applying for compensation

Before applying for medical expense compensation, do the following:

- Pay all of the costs yourself.
- Make copies of the original receipts for yourself.
- Seek compensation for the costs paid from the local office of the Social Insurance Institution within six (6) months of paying the expenses. However, pharmacies and most medical care institutions deduct the share of the Social Insurance Institution compensation directly from the medical expenses, in which case you do not have to apply for it.

- Deliver the Social Insurance Institution's original receipt, copies of payment receipts and the application for compensation to Mandatum Life.
